

Reading Passage 13

The Nest

The wind was blowing. Mouse was cold.

She turned around in her nest under the log.

Then she saw the hole in her nest.

“Can I fix it?” Mouse asked herself.

She asked Crow for help. Crow was eating.

She asked Fox for help. Fox just turned away.

“I can do it myself,” said Mouse. “I will show them.”

Mouse ran around the forest. She found four twigs.

She picked up some black fur. She took them to her nest.

It was time to work. Mouse put the twigs over the hole.

She put the fur over the twigs.

“I have fixed the hole,” said Mouse proudly.

“Now I have a warm nest.”
