

Matter

Matter is everywhere. It has three forms: solid, liquid and gas. A solid holds its own shape. Liquids have no shape of their own. They flow freely when poured. Gases have no shape and most cannot be seen.

Draw a blue circle around the solids, a red circle around the liquids and a yellow circle around the gases.

Get more great items for your child at:
CattailCakes.com