

The Sun

- The sun that we see in the sky is actually a star. It is the closest star to Earth, so that's why it looks so big, and other stars that are further away look small.
- Our sun is very hot, so hot that people can't live on it. The warmth from the sun reaches the earth over 93 million miles, and it helps plants and animals and people grow.
- It also makes the light that we see during the day.
